GRADUAL ABOLITION OF SLAVERY

Proclamation of the New Law-Complete Abelition of Slavery Promised-Studying Up a Scheme-The Precedents.

HAVANA, OCA 1, 1870. m despite of the openly avowed antagonism of the Spanish residents here to any scheme of the home government for a partial or complete system of emancipation, it has been found necessary to publish in the Official Gazette, and so render operative, the law of the Constituent Cortes, passed June 23, 1870, and premulgated by the Regent upon the following 4th of July. A copy of the law as published here accompanies this despatch. As will be seen on perusal it is very far from being one of those sweeping acts of emancipation which in a moment does ing acts of emancipation which in a moment does away with the labor system of a country, perhaps the growth of centuries, without reference to the material prosperity of that country, the good of the es, as soon as the Deputies from Cuba are ad-ted to the Cortes, an indemnified emancipation ose who remain in slavery after the enforcement of this law. Meanwhile those made absolutely free by this act are those over sixty years of age, and those who have "served under the Spanish banner, or have in any manner assisted the troops during the existing insurrection in the island of Cuba."

The supply of labor in Cuba is by no means equal to the demand, and great care seems to have been taken to prevent any immediate decrease of it; so though children hereafter born of slave mothers compulsory, though partly remunerated, labor until ey reach the age of twenty-two. In the law, however, one act of justice has been done, in the free-ing of the emancipados, so called—those taken frem slave ships and since held to labor here under a dependency on the government. These enter immediately upon the enjoyment of their civil rights.

It would seem, from recent developments, that an altimate complete emancipation is anticipated. A commission has recently been appointed here to devise some means to continue the supply of labor and at the same time comply with the demands of e age by abolishing slavery. Its members have been carefully studying the various methods of emancipation which have been tried, and with very in the United States the slave system was abruptly ended by war, and the negro is in every spect equal with the white man before the law. In the eye of the law makers at Washington the negro sible to the Spaniard, who knows him better. A somewhat similar state of affairs exists in Jamaica. When slavery was first abolished there the act provided for the unconditional emancipation of the very old and very young, making the others paid apprentices for the period of eight years. However, philanthropists could not endure that their pets ald be made to labor even for their own good, and the unconditional emancipation was extended Spaniards to follow the example. The system adopted by the French in the small islands of Martinique and Guadaloupe has proved entirely satisfactory. There, under the Vagrant law, the negro is compelled to w either that he is an artisan laboring at his trade, employed on an estate or in some other manner, so as to enable him to support himself and his family. a reduced price for his labor, the government not nesiring to compete with the planters. In so large groes, it is doubtful if a similar law could be made operative; but, doubtless, some project will be hit upon to retain to the planter the full amount of tabor he now possesses for an indefinite time to fares on the city railroad lines of Brooklyn has been halled as the harbinger of a general relaxation of high taxes and cheaper living by all classes of people. On Saturday morning, when the new regula prised when the conductor returned one of the six cents handed in compensation for the ride. Con-tion went into effect in that city, many were surprised when the conductor returned one of the six cents handed in compensation for the ride. Conductor smilingly explained the "situation," and the gratified passenger pocketed "the penny saved" with a joyous expression which more than compensated the philantropine corporation for their most kind consideration of the public interests.

Operation of the New Five Cont Fare Rule-

Whether the decrease in the rate of fares has increased the rate of travel is not positively known as yet outside "the office," but the appearances are most assuredly in favor of the supposition that the inducements thus held out for riding in preference to walking have had the effect of greatly increasing the patronage on the horse cars. There is one drawback observable in this latter fast—that the horses find their drag beavy; that while the burden of the people is reduced equine troubles are increased. The railroad stock of Brooklyn is not as good as it might be, and the agents of the friend of the dumb animal. Professor Bergh, have frequently found most appalling cases of spavin upon which to exercise their philanthropy in prosecuting the company responsible for the working of the "played out" horse. The worst of the stock is intched up in the traces of the cars and run atterdark, when their aliments are least observable to the lynx-eyed detectives of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelsy to Animals.

It is a noticeable fact upon the Court street and Smith street lines that whenever a passenger hands certain conductors six cents in mistake or through ignorance of the new regulation, that the alones and amount is sequestered without explanation. Thus it is that the dishonest "car had successed accuste for induging in his nefarious custom or "knocking down." Passengers had better look to their change before pocketing it, else they will, in many instances, find themselves still traveling at the old rates.

On the Atlantic avenue and Fifth avenue railroads a curious state of affairs exists, it being optional with the passengers

THE DRIVERS' STRIKE.

A Settlement in Prospect-The Railroad

Company Yielding.

The men controlling the eastern division of the Belt" Railroad have at last awakened to a consciousness of their heavy demand for eighteen hours' labor of the drivers. Air George Terty, the Superintendent, was empowered yesterday to concede something to the strikers. Last evening all the drivers assembled at Mr. William Burns' store, corner of Thirty-sixth street and First avenue, when a delegate arrived to announce that the company would be satisfied with the drivers hours' labor proposed by the strikers, providing, however, that they should run three extra trips to the Central Park on Simdays. This would involve eighteen hours' work on the Sabbata, and the drivers protested against a proposition which should prevent them from enjoying a comfortable meal and a brief stay with their families. Mr. Terry replied that he was not authorized to yield further; so the malter rests till to-day. The travelling public are becoming aggravated at the state of affairs which the stubborn demands made by the officials have rendered necessary. It is noped the strike will end to-day. clousness of their heavy demand for eight-

She is supposed to nave committed suicide by poison on Thursday, when she left her work, and the cause assigned is disappointment and chagrin at the third postponement of the wedding day by the man to whom she was engaged. She lived with a sister, baying no parents.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

THURSDAY, OCL 6-6 P. M.

The demand for money on call loans was quite active to-day, and borrowers were running about until quite close upon three o'clock. The demand was readily met at six per cent, however, and the was readily met at six per cent, however, and the government dealers were, as a general thing, acommodated at five per cent. There was no fresh business at four per cent, though some small balances were surfered to lie over at that rate. It is said that a few of the stock houses were compelled to pay seven per cent on inferior collaterals, but if so these cases were entirely exceptional and the transactions hardly quotable. There was no change in discounts, which ranged from 71/2 to 81/2 per cent for actual sales of strictly prime double name ac

The foreign exchange market was very dull. The eading bankers asked 109% for sixty days sterling, and 110 for sight, but sales on the street from second hand were fully a quarter per cent below these figures. Commercial bills were in better sup-ply and quoted 108% a 108%. Cable transfers were

The cable brought the news to-day of a further sharp advance in our five-twenties in London, the oz's opening at 91%, and subsequently advancing to 91%, which is within a quarter per cent of the highest quotation ever made on the other side of the Atlantic. The rise abroad is due to the more widespread intelligence of the Treasury operations, as exhibited in the reduction of the national debt, the intention of the governmen to redeem in gold the loan falling due January 1, 1871, and the intended purchase of at least eight these facts is the present pietheric condition of the Treasury, which now owns about $87,000,000 in gold and nearly $30,000,000 in currency. The effect of the advance in five-twenties in London was to weaken gold to 112%, from which point the market eventually reacted to 118½ on the defeat of the Prassians in the latest engagement near Paris. The feeling is growing in the Gold Room that the Prussian arms will for the future find the struggle with France no easy one, and hence there is some ition to discount the probable influence the German financial markets of a victorious, if not a disastrous, future the Prussian armies in prosecuting the war. While the English money market remains so easy, however, it is certain to exhibit the first effects of any depreciation in American securities in Germany and receive the first instalments of bends which, in the process of realization, may be sent from Berlin and Frankfort—assuming, meantime, that in such a reversal of the Prussian career our bonds in the German money markets will undergo depreciation. The first few weeks of the war in Europe distributed our bonds into strong hands, and change to defeat in the future of Prussian military operations, there would be more than a slight temporary decline. It is true, of course, that the abandonment of the blockade of the German ports by the French navy would permit Frankfort to realize upon our bonds by exporting them to London and New York; but the main argument is still against the probabilits of such a movement. The different matters thus presented for the digestion of the Gold Room caused tion to sell for a decline in response to the advance in five-twenties being checked by the really more important aspect of the war situation as regards the ability of France not only to maintain the defensive, being concurrent that Paris now contains 600,000 men who are steadily improving in drill and discipline, and who may at no distant day change the siege of Paris to a pursuit of the Prussians. It was the contemplation of such contingencies that caused the upward movement in the Gold Room this afternoon, not that such a cause is at all logical; for the greater the embarrassment of Europe the greater will be our gain; but Wall street has fallen into the other way of thinking, and

The Assistant United Stated Treasurer received proposals for the sale to the government of two millions of five-twenty bonds. The amount offered was $8,515,600. The advertised amount was the extent of the acceptances.

The Sub-Treasury received to-day a further instalment of $245,000 of the five per cents of 1871, making a total of $1,330,000 of the loan redeemed so

The government bond market was strong in the forencon, but fell off on the large offering at the Sub-Treasury, and closed steady, as follows:— United States currency sixes, 111% a 111%; do., 1881, registered, 113% a 114; do. do. coupon, 113% a 114; do. five-twenties, registered, May and November, 108% a 108%; do. do., 1862, compon, do., 112% a 113; do. do., 1864, do. do., 11134 a 11134; do. do., 1865, do. do., 11134 a 112; do. do., registered, January and July, 110% a 110%; do. de., 1865, coupen, do., 110¾ a 110¾; de. de., 1867, de. do., 110¾ a 110½; de. de., 1868, de. de., 110¾ a 110½; de. ten-forties, registered, 1861/ a 1061/; de. do., conpon, 108% a 106%.

THE STOCK MARKET LOWER. There was a renewal of the "bear" operations against Ohio and Mississippi, the price of which fell, amid considerable excitement, from 32% to 31%. The rest of the market fell off in sympathy, and closed somewhat feverish at the lowest prices of the day, except for Rock Island, which, in anticipation of the closing of the books day after to-morrow for the dividend recently declared, rose to 1171/2 from 116%, and reacted only to 117 in the general decline. tate in the day. The greater activity in money observable between two and three o'clock was one reason assigned for the weakening of the market. While the better demand for funds was due to the more active business of the past few days at the Stock Exchange and to the payments into the Sub-Treasury of the money for the government gold bought the day before, its effect was intensified by the circulation of rumors that the "bear" cliques intended "locking up greenbacks" and making money stringent.
